

When you need a book in school you go to the school library, a fantastic resource with everything you need right there at your finger tips.

You can choose from thousands of books by subject, by topic but you have the choice.

Now, if you want to play a video during your lesson, you can go to the ClickView library and choose from thousands of digital resources such as video, jpegs or audio files.

You can choose from specific educational programmes, feature films or free to air TV programmes, all of which are available at the click of a button.

ClickView can be used by every teacher and student in every subject and you can access and use these resources from a laptop, on an interactive whiteboard or in an ICT suite.

You can also add any of these resources into your VLE or drop clips into programmes such as PowerPoint.

There are more 550 schools and colleges right across the United Kingdom who now use ClickView everyday as part of their teaching and learning toolkit so please get in touch and we will happily set you up with a free, 30 day no obligation trial.
